

Shrvinayaka Astrology

Complete Astrology + Consultation Report

Personalized AI Astrology Report

Client Birth Details

NAME	Career Report Sample
REPORT TYPE	Complete Astrology + Consultation Report
LANGUAGE	English
DATE OF BIRTH	15/03/1992
TIME OF BIRTH	05:47 AM
BIRTH PLACE	Jaipur, Rajasthan, India
ASCENDANT	Aquarius
MOON SIGN	Cancer
NAKSHATRA	Pushya
PADA	2
MAHADASHA	Ketu
MAHADASHA PERIOD	2019-10-21 to 2026-10-21
ANTARDASHA	Mercury
ANTARDASHA PERIOD	2025-10-24 to 2026-10-21

Prepared by Shrvinayaka AI Astrology
shrvinayakaastrology.com

Report Includes

- Birth Chart
- D1 & D9 Charts
- Mahadasha
- Current Transits
- Life Area Scores
- Personal Consultation

Planetary Positions

Ascendant Aquarius House 1	Sun Pisces House 2
Moon Cancer House 6	Mars Capricorn House 12
Mercury Pisces House 2	Jupiter Leo House 7
Venus Aquarius House 1	Saturn Capricorn House 12
Rahu Sagittarius House 11	Ketu Gemini House 5

Current Planetary Period Snapshot

Current Mahadasha

Ketu

2019-10-21 to 2026-10-21

Current Antardasha

Mercury

2025-10-24 to 2026-10-21

Birth Charts

Rashi D1

House 1 Aquarius Ascendant, Venus	House 2 Pisces Sun, Mercury	House 3 - -	House 4 - -
House 5 Gemini Ketu	House 6 Cancer Moon	House 7 Leo Jupiter	House 8 - -
House 9 - -	House 10 - -	House 11 Sagittarius Rahu	House 12 Capricorn Mars, Saturn

Navamsha D9

House 1 Capricorn Ascendant, Ketu	House 2 - -	House 3 - -	House 4 - -
House 5 - -	House 6 - -	House 7 Cancer Sun, Saturn, Rahu	House 8 Leo Mars, Jupiter
House 9 Virgo Moon	House 10 - -	House 11 - -	House 12 Sagittarius Mercury, Venus

Dasha Summary

Current Mahadasha	Ketu
Mahadasha Period	2019-10-21 to 2026-10-21
Current Antardasha	Mercury
Antardasha Period	2025-10-24 to 2026-10-21

Antardasha Timeline

Period	Start Date	End Date
Ketu/Mercury	2025-10-24	2026-10-21
Venus/Venus	2026-10-21	2030-02-19
Venus/Sun	2030-02-19	2031-02-20
Venus/Moon	2031-02-20	2032-10-20
Venus/Mars	2032-10-20	2033-12-21
Venus/Rahu	2033-12-21	2036-12-20

--

Life Area Strengths

Top Strength

Marriage & Partnerships (64)

Needs Attention

Losses & Spirituality (36)

SELF & BODY	62/100
WEALTH & SPEECH	54/100
COURAGE & SIBLINGS	50/100
HOME & HAPPINESS	50/100
INTELLIGENCE & CHILDREN	42/100
HEALTH & CHALLENGES	57/100
MARRIAGE & PARTNERSHIPS	64/100
LONGEVITY & HIDDEN MATTERS	50/100
FORTUNE & DHARMA	50/100
CAREER & FAME	50/100
GAINS & INCOME	48/100
LOSSES & SPIRITUALITY	36/100

PART 1

COMPLETE ASTROLOGY REPORT

1. Core Personality & Life Pattern

You said you are currently unemployed. Your chart and current timing point strongly to delays and instability in career matters, which explains why this is a live, painful question.

You are emotionally sensitive and protective; you want safety and meaning in the work you do. At the same time you carry an inner impatience – a need to move, try and test different paths. That contrast makes your decisions swing between commitment and escape: you sign up for something, then a nagging inner voice points out what's missing and you leave. This pattern produces gaps, job changes, and a steady undercurrent of restlessness.

Strengths are real: you care for others, you learn quickly in crisis, and you tolerate uncertainty longer than many. The shadow side is equally real: that tolerance can become chronic drift – staying in temporary roles, avoiding long-term responsibility, or sabotaging stable opportunities because they feel emotionally confining. The emotional cost is loneliness, self-doubt and a running commentary of “not enough” that eats satisfaction even when things go well.

Your life direction will slowly move from trial-and-error toward crafting a work identity that fits your emotional rules (security + meaningfulness). Decisions are made as emotional reactions more than strategy. That means you need external structures – mentors, contracts, timelines – to stop changes from becoming avoidance.

2. Moon Sign, Nakshatra and Pada Analysis

Moon Sign: Cancer | Nakshatra: Pushya | Pada: 2 | Nakshatra Lord: Saturn

Your Moon in Cancer builds a core need for emotional safety, care and predictability. Pushya gives you a natural urge to nourish and be useful; you often measure success by how secure and useful you feel rather than by status. Pada 2 (ruled by Saturn) brings seriousness to those needs: you don't indulge emotions lightly, you test reliability and you expect rules. Saturn as nakshatra lord adds caution and delay — you prefer slow, measured moves and you are suspicious of quick fixes.

Practically, this combination makes you someone who wants a steady base but gets pulled into roles where you must prove yourself repeatedly. Emotionally you oscillate between warm protectiveness and a rigid self-discipline that can cut you off from support when you most need it. You may prefer work where your care has structure — healthcare, education, administration, or any role where “helping” is organized and accountable.

The Moon in Pushya also means you take criticism personally. You want to belong and be appreciated; when a job ends abruptly or a project fails, you internalize it: “I didn't measure up.” That reaction drives you to iterate careers instead of staying to learn long-term.

3. Deep Personality Breakdown from Nakshatra

Instinctively you reach for safe roles and relationships. You show up as reliable, quietly competent and practical. People may see you as steady, but you often feel brittle inside: small rejections are experienced like structural failures. Pushya's generosity is genuine, but pada 2's Saturn influence turns that generosity into sacrifice sometimes — doing more than asked at your own cost.

Your emotional needs: security, appreciation, and a container where your caring has rules. Hidden fears: that your usefulness is conditional and that if you stay too long you'll be exposed as not good enough. Desire pattern: you want to be needed, but not vulnerable. That contradiction produces a repeated script: you accept temporary roles to be useful, then withdraw when you sense criticism or instability.

Shadow side: self-blame and martyrdom. The same care that makes you dependable can lead to resentful bottling of emotions, then sudden withdrawal. Under pressure you may become passive-aggressive or vanish rather than ask for boundaries — and that pattern scares employers who need straightforward communication.

4. Emotional Nature and Mental Pattern

Your emotional rhythm is cyclical: intense care and engagement followed by retreat. Mentally you analyze feelings, which helps you plan, but the analysis often becomes rumination — replaying past job exits and imagining new failures. Stress makes you conservative: you tighten and take fewer risks, which paradoxically narrows options.

When disappointed, you try to fix things quietly rather than confront the cause. That can be useful in teamwork, but in career searches it looks like indecision. Uncertainty increases internal loops: “If I had been better, I would have stayed.” Over time this becomes a slow drain on motivation. You recover by being in small predictable roles where you can see direct impact and receive clear feedback.

5. Core Karmic Challenges

Repeating life struggles show a pattern: starting, investing hope, then stepping back when the environment demands more vulnerability. Karmically you are being asked to learn true steadiness — not by doggedly forcing presence, but by choosing environments that match your emotional rules and then staying long enough to build credibility.

Psychological contradictions: hunger for belonging vs. fear of dependence; desire to be helpful vs. fear of being taken for granted. These produce delays and frequent restarts in career and relationships. Destructive coping patterns include self-sabotage (leaving roles preemptively), overworking to prove worth, or withdrawing emotionally until opportunities pass.

You will likely experience repeated small setbacks that feel personal (jobs ending, missed promotions), which are not punishment but friction forcing you to learn boundaries, honesty and sustainable commitment.

6. Career, Work & Success Path

You mentioned unemployment and frequent job changes. The chart shows career instability and timing that supports that lived reality: Ketu Mahadasha tends to create detachment from conventional goals and repeated resets; Moon in the 6th suggests work-related stress and service roles; Saturn’s influence via Pushya raises delay and responsibility.

Suitable directions: structured helping roles (healthcare coordination, administration in a caring field), technical support where service is organized, or roles that combine routine with meaning (HR operations, compliance for NGOs, program coordination). You may also do well in creative work that has clear deliverables and a predictable schedule.

Business vs job: your chart leans toward jobs with structure rather than risky entrepreneurship, at least in this period. Recognition builds slowly; rapid promotions are unlikely now. Leadership can come through quiet competence, not visible charisma. Communication ability is practical rather than flashy – you persuade by reliability.

Career challenges: patterns of short tenures, difficulty negotiating salary or terms, and an inner pull to change jobs when emotional comfort dips. Growth windows in Ketu Mahadasha are often internal – building discipline, learning a trade deeply, or retraining. The late part of this Mahadasha asks for consolidation and preparation for the next timing shift; if you prepare now, steadier work is more likely when timing improves.

Practical Advice

- Target roles with clear boundaries, ask for trial projects with measurable outcomes, and negotiate probationary plans that convert into permanent terms if both sides are satisfied.

7. Money & Financial Stability

You mentioned finances implicitly via unemployment. Your chart indicates cyclical earnings: periods of scarcity followed by steady patches when you commit. Spending tends to be cautious but emotionally driven – you may spend on things that feel like security (courses, short-term fixes) instead of long-term investments.

Risks: taking short-term gigs that pay but don't build career capital, or pulling out of good offers because of fear. Long-term wealth potential exists but requires staying in systems long enough to accumulate raises and benefits. Emergency savings and a basic budget discipline are essential now.

Practical financial guidance:

- Build a three-month cash buffer first.
- Choose opportunities that add measurable skills or networking, not only immediate pay.
- Avoid multiple short-term contracts at once if they disrupt your ability to show sustained results on your CV.

8. Relationship, Marriage & Emotional Compatibility

You mentioned you are single. The chart also indicates delays and caution in relationship matters. You want emotional safety and may be drawn to partners who seem stable, but you also attract people who are busy, inconsistent, or emotionally distant — partly because your need to protect yourself sends out signals of reserve.

Emotional expectations: loyalty, clear commitments, practical care. You are loyal but may become withdrawn when demands exceed your comfort. Communication can be indirect under stress. Compatibility works best with partners who respect boundaries and provide small steady reassurances rather than dramatic declarations.

Delays in marriage or long-term commitment are likely now. That can be frustrating, but it's also an invitation to learn to express needs plainly and to avoid martyrdom. If you keep leaving relationships when things become inconvenient, you will repeat the same loneliness pattern.

9. Health & Mental Wellbeing

Stress patterns: worry, stomach or digestion sensitivity (Moon in Cancer and service house placements), low-energy dips after emotional shocks. Mental balance suffers from overthinking and self-critique. Sleep may be disrupted when you ruminate about career gaps.

Lifestyle tendencies: you recover better with routine and small physical anchors (short walks, consistent meals). Avoid all-or-nothing health plans; incremental changes suit you.

Wellness advice:

- Short daily grounding routines (10 minutes breathing, walk after meals).
- Structured sleep schedule to reduce rumination at night.
- Therapy or coaching to unpack the recurring "I'm not enough" script.

10. Current Transit Analysis

Saturn in 2nd House

Saturn Impact

Practical pressure on income sources, savings and spoken values; slow structural work required.

Impact from Ascendant

From your Ascendant, Saturn in the 2nd house makes you face realism about finances and self-worth. There is pressure to build reliable income streams, but gains are slow and require consistent effort. Employers may test your reliability; contracts are conservative. This transit asks you to organize money, cut unnecessary expenses, and accept that raises or stability arrive through disciplined performance rather than quick wins.

Impact from Moon (Saturn in 9th from Moon)

Emotionally this transit tightens faith and long-term optimism. From your Moon, Saturn in the 9th creates frustration with quick career shortcuts—beliefs and higher education feel heavy; you may doubt whether retraining will pay off. There's a colder, cautious attitude toward mentors and far-reaching plans; your emotional energy prefers concrete steps over bold promises.

Practical Advice

- Focus on steady income and document achievements carefully.
- Avoid high-risk career pivots without a fallback plan.
- Structure learning into bite-sized, certified steps that produce visible proof of skill.

Jupiter in 6th House

Jupiter Impact

Opportunities through service, contracts and skill-building, but not instant breakthrough.

Impact from Ascendant

From Ascendant, Jupiter in the 6th house supports small improvements in work conditions and health-related routines. You may find openings in employment if you apply persistently; workplace mentors can appear. Promotions are more likely where you serve practical needs and show integrity. However, Jupiter here expands what's already present — so small jobs can grow, but you must commit.

Impact from Moon (Jupiter in 1st from Moon)

Emotionally, Jupiter in the 1st from Moon brings a warming of confidence and public mood. You'll feel slightly more optimistic and visible; your mental state is less self-critical than before. This can lower anxiety around job applications and make you present better in interviews. But optimism must be grounded—overconfidence can lead to applying for roles without necessary readiness.

Practical Advice

- Use this transit to apply widely in service-oriented sectors and to volunteer in roles that build demonstrable experience.
- Keep routines healthy; Jupiter's expansion can mask tiredness.
- Prepare talk tracks that turn small wins into clear narratives of value for interviews.

Rahu in 1st House

Rahu Impact

Identity pressure: restlessness, desire to reinvent and attract unconventional roles.

Impact from Ascendant

From Ascendant, Rahu in the 1st house pushes you to change how you present yourself. It fuels experimentation with career identity—new CV formats, online presence, or switching industries. That energy can help you break old patterns, but it also brings inconsistency and flashy moves that don't stick. Employers may find you intriguing but uneven. There's a risk of chasing novelty rather than depth.

Impact from Moon (Rahu in 8th from Moon)

Emotionally, Rahu in the 8th from Moon fuels anxiety about sudden shifts and deep insecurity around belonging. You may obsess over other people's success and compare harshly, which feeds impulsive job changes. On the other hand, this placement can force you to confront buried career fears; when handled, it can release patterns of avoidance. But expect moments of fear, obsessive planning, or attraction to quick money schemes that later disappoint.

Practical Advice

- Limit experiments to defined pilots (3-month projects) so you can evaluate without sinking.
- Avoid accidental commitments to unstable freelance gigs that prevent long-term CV continuity.
- Ground your reinvention with small, verifiable achievements.

Ketu in 7th House

Ketu Impact

Detachment in partnerships and public contracts; endings that force internal work.

Impact from Ascendant

From Ascendant, Ketu transiting the 7th house signals a period where public relationships, partnerships and formal collaborations feel unsatisfying or incomplete. Contracts may dissolve or partners behave unpredictably. Professionally this can manifest as clients disappearing or collaborations failing to meet expectations. Saturnian caution from your Moon's nakshatra makes these endings feel like personal faults; resist that conclusion.

Impact from Moon (Ketu in 2nd from Moon)

Emotionally, Ketu in the 2nd from Moon creates ambivalence about possessions and self-worth. You may detach from the idea that a job defines you, which can be freeing but also leaves gaps in motivation to pursue steady income. There's a subtle internal pull to test how much you truly need, which can produce irregular employment patterns and more gaps.

Practical Advice

- Expect and plan for partnership instability; get written agreements and defined deliverables.
- Don't interpret every failed collaboration as permanent rejection; treat it as data.
- Build a personal value statement (skills + outcomes) to anchor confidence when external validation fades.

11. Detailed Current Mahadasha Analysis

Current Mahadasha

Current Mahadasha: Ketu

Start Date: 2019-10-21

End Date: 2026-10-21

This period creates detachment, internal realignment and repeated clearing of what no longer fits. Psychologically, you feel pulled away from conventional career ambitions and more toward inner questions: "What work feels true?" This can create a long string of trial jobs and gaps because you're unconsciously testing what you can let go of.

Career impact: expect instability and breaks, sudden endings of roles, and a need to unlearn attachment to titles. Financially, Ketu often brings fluctuations — occasional windfalls are possible but steady income is harder until you rebuild a stable base. Relationships can suffer from emotional withdrawal; you may avoid commitment or feel misunderstood.

Spiritually, Ketu asks for quiet discipline: learning to be content with less external validation. Major lessons of this Mahadasha include learning restraint, facing fear of not-being-needed, and developing inner authority. Early phase (2019–2022) likely brought confusion and exits; middle phase (2022–2025) offered learning through short-term projects; later phase (2025–2026) asks for consolidation and preparation for the timing shift that follows the end of this Mahadasha.

Ketu is not punitive — it's surgical. The challenge is to use this time to shore up skills, document small wins, and build the inner clarity that prevents repeating the same job-change pattern. Expect last-minute upheavals, but also potential for a clearer sense of what you must stop chasing.

12. Current Antardasha Meaning

Current Antardasha: Mercury

Start Date: 2025-10-24

End Date: 2026-10-21

Mercury antardasha within Ketu Mahadasha brings a final practical push: focus on communication, applications, short courses and networking. Emotionally this period sharpens thinking and brings urgency to fix the loose ends Ketu exposed. Career-wise it favors job hunting, interviews, certifications, and polishing your CV or online presence. Financially expect small contracts and short-term consultancies more than long-term offers.

How it modifies Ketu: While Ketu detaches, Mercury pushes you to communicate and package yourself better. The tension can feel like you want to detach yet must sell yourself. Use Mercury's skills to translate your short gigs into coherent narratives (e.g., "project-based impact that led to X").

Cautions: Mercury's speed can fuel impulsive job changes — don't accept roles without checking continuity and growth path. Practical advice: prepare concise case studies of your work, apply for roles that require specific competencies you can prove, and focus on short contracts with conversion clauses into permanent positions.

This antardasha is a last chance under Ketu to make practical moves that carry into the next timing phase; treat it as an edit and packaging phase rather than a full reinvention.

13. Next Timing Phase (after Ketu Mahadasha)

Ketu Mahadasha

ends on 2026-10-21. The timing and themes will shift after that date. Rather than predicting a named next mahadasha here, the practical emphasis is: prepare now so you can make the most of the new timing once Ketu’s clearing work is complete.

For career: use the remaining months of Ketu/Mercury to document measurable outcomes and stabilize a few relationships. When the current Mahadasha ends, your readiness to present a coherent story and proven results will determine how quickly steadier opportunities arrive.

Caution: avoid settling into roles that only soothe short-term anxiety; aim for positions that offer structure and measurable progress.

14. Antardasha Timeline

Period	Start Date	End Date
Ketu/Mercury	2025-10-24	2026-10-21
Venus/Venus	2026-10-21	2030-02-19
Venus/Sun	2030-02-19	2031-02-20
Venus/Moon	2031-02-20	2032-10-20
Venus/Mars	2032-10-20	2033-12-21
Venus/Rahu	2033-12-21	2036-12-20

15. Next 3 Years Roadmap

Year 1

Period: Jun 2026 – Jun 2027 (end of Ketu Mahadasha and immediate transition)

Prediction: Expect a shift from confusion to possibility around the end of Ketu in Oct 2026. The remaining Mercury window (until Oct 21, 2026) is practical for polishing your CV and running short pilots. After the Mahadasha ends, timing will change and new opportunities may surface, but they will favor those who prepared evidence of competence.

Advice: Use Jun–Oct 2026 to document measurable outcomes from past jobs. After Oct 2026, prioritize roles with clear stability and benefits; negotiate trial-to-permanent terms and avoid impulsive moves.

Year 2

Period: Jun 2027 – Jun 2028 (post-Ketu adjustment)

Prediction: If you prepared and presented coherent proof of your work, this year is likely to offer more concrete opportunities and a chance to settle into steadier roles. If you remain scattered, instability can persist.

Advice: Stay at least 18–24 months in one role to build credibility. Track KPIs and ask for feedback cycles every 6 months to prevent drifting.

Year 3

Period: Jun 2028 – Jun 2029

Prediction: If you committed in Year 2, recognition and incremental raises become likelier. Your emotional life steadies and you find a better rhythm between care and boundaries. If you did not settle, short-term gigs may continue to repeat the same pattern.

Advice: Convert temporary contracts to permanent where possible. Invest in a single high-value skill that links your past varied experience into a sellable specialty.

16. Practical Remedies & Alignment Advice

- Daily discipline: 10–15 minutes morning planning and a short evening review to convert small wins into records you can show employers.
- Networking: reach out to former managers with specific measurable updates; ask for short reference projects rather than vague endorsements.
- Learning: choose one short certified course that fills a skill gap relevant to stable roles; complete it before Oct 2026 if possible.
- Emotional: short weekly therapy or coaching focused on boundary setting and stopping preemptive exits.
- Lifestyle: consistent sleep and a light daily exercise routine to reduce rumination.
- Charity/Service: volunteer monthly in a structured environment (clinical, NGO, community center) to build steady references and practice commitment.

17. Final Guidance

You're not broken — you're in a difficult timing that asks you to become intentionally stable. Ketu's clearing has been painful but it can free you to choose a career that fits your emotional rules. The practical work now is less about reinvention and more about editing and packaging your scattered experience into a coherent story you can sell. Use the remaining months of Ketu/Mercury to tidy your record, then enter the next timing phase with clear boundaries and a plan to stay long enough to build credibility. Expect friction, practice patience, and convert short-term activity into long-term proof.

Final Observation

This period asks for realistic discipline rather than optimism. Use the remaining months of Ketu/Mercury to tidy your record, then move into the next timing phase with clear boundaries and a plan to stay long enough to build credibility. Expect friction, practice patience, and convert short-term activity into long-term proof.

PART 2

PERSONAL CONSULTATION ANALYSIS

Brief Chart Summary

Moon in Cancer (Pushya, Pada 2) gives a protective, service-oriented emotional base with Saturn's caution built-in. Ketu Mahadasha (2019–2026) has produced detachment and career resets. Natal Moon in the 6th shows work-related service stress and frequent role changes; current transits show practical pressure on finances (Saturn in 2nd) and opportunities through service roles (Jupiter in 6th).

Factors Relevant To Question

- Houses/Planets: 6th house (Moon) – work, service and employment issues; 10th house influences are slower in this chart but the 6th shows daily work rhythm problems. Ketu (Mahadasha) – detachment and endings; Saturn (nakshatra lord of Moon) – delay and slow building of reputation; Mercury antardasha (until 2026-10-21) – communication, applications, short courses; Rahu transit – restlessness in identity.

- Key issues: pattern of leaving or being forced out (Ketu), difficulty feeling safe in long positions (Moon/Saturn), restlessness in identity (Rahu transit).

Current Dasha Impact

Current Mahadasha: Ketu

(2019-10-21 to 2026-10-21)

Ketu causes detachment from conventional career attachments and encourages clearing of roles that don't fit. This has shown up as frequent job changes and employment gaps. The Mahadasha reduces the weight of stable career identity, making short gigs and experiments more common. The remaining months are a window to consolidate what you've learned and package it so you can take fuller advantage of the next timing phase.

Current Transit Impact

Saturn Impact

Saturn in your 2nd house (from Ascendant) is pressuring finances and requiring disciplined money habits. From Moon it sits in the 9th, creating slow, practical limits on retraining and long-term promises. This transit demands documented performance and conservative moves rather than risk.

Jupiter Impact

Jupiter in the 6th (from Ascendant) helps job opportunities through service sectors; from Moon it boosts personal confidence. Use this to apply and volunteer in measurable roles, but don't expect instant breakthroughs — growth is incremental.

Rahu Impact

Rahu in the 1st house fuels identity experiments and makes you prone to reinventing yourself quickly. From your Moon it stirs deep anxiety about stability. Use Rahu energy to rebrand methodically — not impulsively.

Ketu Impact

Ketu in the 7th house has been dissolving partnerships and public contracts; from Moon it produces detachment about possessions and income. This is why you've faced contract instability and job gaps.

17. Direct Answer to Your Question

Your Question

How can I find the right career path when I have frequent job changes or gaps in employment?

Brief Answer

You need a two-step approach: stabilize and document now, then choose roles that match your emotional need for structure and meaningful service. Use Mercury's current window to polish proof of results and prepare for the timing shift after Ketu Mahadasha ends.

What the Chart Indicates

The chart shows a pattern of leaving or being pushed out during Ketu Mahadasha and a Moon that needs emotional security. Saturn's influence makes progress slow but durable if you stay. Jupiter transit supports incremental openings in service sectors. Rahu encourages reinvention — use it for focused rebranding, not scattershot changes.

Possible Time Period

Short-term (until Oct 21, 2026): finalize Mercury-driven polishing of CV, certifications, and pilot projects. Mid-term (post-Oct 21, 2026): timing shifts and steadier opportunities are more likely for those who prepared documentation and commitments during Ketu/Mercury.

Practical Advice

- Create a one-page impact resume with 3–5 measurable outcomes from past roles.
- Run 2 short, time-boxed pilot projects (3 months) that demonstrate measurable results you can show employers.
- Ask for trial-to-permanent clauses when accepting short contracts.
- Enroll in one recognized course that directly fills a job requirement and finish it before Oct 2026.
- Weekly check-ins with a career coach or mentor to prevent preemptive exits.

Overall Assessment

Mixed but Improving

Final Observation

You are in a transitional phase that asks for practical organization rather than bold reinvention. Consolidate, document and choose roles that honor your emotional need for care and predictable structure. If you do the preparatory work now, the next timing phase offers a genuine chance for steadier progress — but only if you stop the pattern of leaving before the work of growth is complete.